Moss at 29:20: "If the leaders who are currently elected would rather listen to their experts in the health department and then usurp the roles of parents, then the only possible option to change that reality is to replace them. So that's what I started working to do."

Moss at 46:15: "The County Commission's—their overall job, is to provide oversight and guidance for the county through budgets and things like that. It's their job to be aware of what's going on in the county, especially with their employees. And so, when there is a big situation like the government response to the corona virus it's their job to be involved. Many of the county commissioners I talked to in the past two years did this [raises hands in defensive position] and put their hands up and said we can't do anything. That was a false statement. What was allowed to happen is that a single, unelected and unaccountable individual and who is hired and fired and accountable to the county board was then able to issue rules and mandates and take control over 300,000 people and their daily decisions."

Gretchen Cosby at 48:20: "There's another question that we all should be asking because I worked with our medical director. You have a physician medical director that oversees the department. Why was Lisa [Stefanovsky] with a Master's degree in education making decisions about masking mandates and vaccines? That's a fair question. Why didn't Dr. [Hydel?] step up?"
